Steely Dan Tribute King of the World

Show Dates: 04/04/14 at 7pm & 9:30pm

King of the World was formed in January 2011 by a group of longtime friends....guys that grew up on this music and love it at a deep level. For KOTW, Steely Dan is the other level; a voodoo cocktail of cool....sort of the mutant offspring of Rock and Jazz. If Mingus or Ellington had a Rock & Roll band, this is what it might sound like. While KOTW revere the music of Fagan, Becker & Co., they don't take themselves or the whole endeavor too seriously. Steely Dan was celebrated for some of the most musical, pristine recordings ever committed to tape but KOTW make no unwarranted claim to any such lofty sonic ideals. Faithful to the original but happy to put a little stank on things, come to a show and find out: King of the World get down.

Both Dantzler and Graydon had begun their careers as solo performers, and although they began making music together at the beginning of their relationship, marriage and a family had pushed them to scale back their musical work in favor of finding steady extra-musical income. Soon after the pair's return to performing and their subsequent discovery by Scott, they signed to Scott's Hidden Beach Recordings label and released their debut record, Surrender to Love (2003), which featured the tracks "Stars" and "Far Away." The album earned the duo a nomination for a Soul Train Music Award in 2004.
